RESEARCH INTERESTS

My research aims to move prevention of adolescent antisocial behavior upstream, before young people reach the legal system. I study how family adversity (e.g., disrupted caregiving, household conflict, socioeconomic disadvantage) produces divergent developmental pathways into and out of antisocial behavior, and when those pathways separate. This shifts the question from who is at risk to when and why risk consolidates, which is what makes developmentally timed intervention possible.

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Youth Antisocial Behavior	Cross-National Study of Youth Gangs (PIs: Dr. Shannon Reid & Dr. Sungil Han, UNC Charlotte) - Understanding Youth Gangs in Modern Society (2026-Present): Collaborator on a funded cross-national mixed-methods study (10+ countries) of youth perceptions of gangs and gang-related victimization; designing the Korean arm, with data collection beginning 2027.
Developmental Vulnerability	Forensic Evaluations (Advisor: Dr. Eunkyung Jo) - Adolescent Victim Statement Analysis (2024): Contributed to a court-submitted expert opinion (Suwon District Court) applying Statement Validity Analysis (SVA/CBCA); analyzed how developmental vulnerabilities (borderline intellectual functioning, suggestibility, and disrupted attachment) shaped an adolescent victim's susceptibility to exploitation and the validity of her testimony.

- Testimony of an Intellectually Disabled Victim (2024): Co-conducted a credibility assessment integrating cognitive-capacity evaluation with statement analysis; submitted to Seoul High Court.
- Coercive Control in a Homicide Case (2023): Assessed coercive-control dynamics and testimonial validity in an expert opinion presented to Seoul High Court.
- Psychological Autopsy (2023): Examined psychological, relational, and environmental antecedents of a suicide case.

Risk Assessment

Risk-Assessment Instrument Development (Advisor: Dr. Eunkyung Jo)

- Stalking Risk-Assessment Framework (2023): Co-developed and validated two risk-assessment instruments (SRAT-I, SRAT-P) commissioned by Gwangju Metropolitan Police; coded 288 case files from 18 agencies, drawing on SAM, SARA-V3, and HCR-20; co-authored scoring manuals and the policy report.
- Implicit Attitudes Toward Victims of Sexual Violence (2023): Coordinated an IAT study (N = 200); contributed to data analysis and manuscript development.

Computational Methods

Computational Data Analysis & NLP Research (Advisor: Dr. Eunkyung Jo)

- Computational Analysis of Psychological Manipulation (2023): Led a text-mining study of 5,000+ social-media posts on gaslighting discourse (Python); Best Poster Award.
- NLP Corpus for Investigative Interviews (2022): Built a CBCA-coded training corpus (3,000+ statements) supporting AI-assisted interview analysis for victims of sexual violence.
